

First Circles Leaders gather in Darwin for their final workshop.

First Circles members gathered in Darwin at the end of November for the fourth and final workshop.

The three-day workshop focussed on preparations for their presentation to NT Cabinet Ministers. This included group discussions, presentations, and individual time to finalise their speeches. Members practised their public speaking skills, including a mock panel rehearsal activity.

Members confirmed their topics and worked to transform their research and notes into relevant speeches. The four topics raised with Cabinet were:

- Water Security
- Water Quality
- Housing
- Roads

The term 'First Circles' combines two concepts:

- Acknowledgement of 'First Peoples'
- The use of 'Circles' represents the collaboration between people and communities being the main driver to improve outcomes.

Workshop Birthday! 🎂

FC member Deanna Kennedy tried to keep her birthday on the down low during workshop 4. To her surprise, the Aboriginal Partnerships and Reform team arrived with a cake in hand and singing voices to wish her a Happy Birthday.

Member's Final Team Dinner

Cabinet Presentation

On the 3 December, the morning kicked off with the First Circles members gathering to officially present and meet with NT Cabinet Ministers.

Members met with the Chief Minister, Deputy Chief Minister, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs and five other Ministers to discuss key issues impacting remote Aboriginal communities. Solutions and opportunities were highlighted for government to better work with remote communities on a range of projects, policies, and programs. Despite plenty of pre speech nerves, members spoke confidently, and strongly expressed their key community matters.

2024 First Circles Member Awards and 10th Anniversary Celebrations

The First Circles Leadership Program is an NT Government initiative that was developed in 2014 to help identify, mentor and support Aboriginal emerging leaders from remote communities across the Northern Territory.

2014/15 First Circles Members

The Hon Steve Edgington MLA, Minister for Aboriginal Affairs, hosted an evening of celebrations to mark the completion of the 2024 program and to recognise the 10th year of the First Circles Program.

Following a 'Welcome to Country' delivered by Larrakia woman Jeaneen McLennan and a didgeridoo performance by Les Huddleston, Minister Edgington congratulated 2024 First Circles members on their hard work and commitment throughout the program. He encouraged members to continue their leadership journeys and to encourage others in their communities to do the same.

This year, 9 Aboriginal leaders from remote communities in the Northern Territory participated in the program to develop and expand their leadership skills.

Since April 2024, members have participated in four workshops and three regional engagement sessions. They have strengthened their voices and built skills to speak confidently and directly with government about matters affecting their communities.
