

Kenbi Land Claim - Fact Sheet

The long running Kenbi Land Claim has now been finalised with the last grants of land on the Cox Peninsula to the Kenbi Land Trust and the Larrakia Development Corporation.

All land granted extends to the low tide mark. The intertidal zone between the high and the low tide mark can be accessed by the public without a permit.

The intertidal zone can be used for recreational fishing and boating to support the Territory's outdoor lifestyle.

Access to any part of the Cox Peninsula beyond a public road or the intertidal zone is Aboriginal land will require a permit obtained from the Northern Land Council

There are restricted areas on the Cox Peninsula to protect Aboriginal sacred and cultural sites.

Respect for the land held by the Traditional Owners and Larrakia people is important.
